Pastoral Letter: *Encountering Jesus in the Eucharist: Disciples Called To Worship
by Bishop Ricken

Part IV Overview of the Structure of the Mass

The Eucharistic Prayer

Within the Eucharistic Prayer, Jesus, the High Priest, through the ministerial priest at the Mass, prays the “narrative of institution” which is found in three of the Gospels — Matthew, Mark and Luke — as well as in St. Paul’s First Letter to the Corinthians. Jesus told his disciples to “do this in memory of me” (Luke 22:19, 1 Corinthians 11:24-25), and so we do as he demands. The action remains his, and so it is not merely a psychological act of remembrance. It does what he says it does. It makes the bread become his Body and the wine become his Blood. In the words of the old catechisms, the action “effects what it signifies.”

The Church’s ritual book, the Roman Missal, includes several Eucharistic Prayers, and a priest may choose any one of these. Some are much longer than others. Some are very ancient in their origins; and some have been composed only recently. Some have special purposes. There is a Eucharistic Prayer, for example, composed especially for Masses with many small children. There are Eucharistic Prayers for reconciliation, to be used in times of war or social unrest.

All of the Eucharistic Prayers have certain elements, or movements, in common. There are words of thanksgiving. There is an epiclesis, or invocation of the Holy Spirit, when the priest extends his hands over the gifts of bread and wine.

There is the institution narrative, already mentioned above. There is a movement of anamnesis, which is Greek for “remembrance,” when the priest calls to mind the life, death, resurrection and glorification of Jesus. There are intercessions. And there is a final prayer of “doxology” — the term comes from the Greek words for “a word of praise.” At the doxology, the priest elevates the gifts and refers to them in personal terms: “Through him, with him, in him ...” In other words, he praises the Eucharist as Jesus, because he is really present in the sacrament. The congregation joins in this praise by responding “Amen.” This conclusion is sometimes called “The Great Amen.”

	“The primary goal in the education of children is to teach, and to give the example of, a virtuous life.” ~ St. John Chrysostom

When you think of someone suffering, what do you think of? Do you think of someone who is sick, or a person without a food? These are what we call physical sufferings. Many of the saints suffered physically before they died. But there is another type of suffering too: spiritual suffering.

Aside from Jesus, no other person has spiritually suffered as much as the Blessed Virgin Mary. Mary, called upon by God to bring Jesus into the world, witnessed all of the hurtful things that happened to Jesus. Mary knew that God had sent Jesus here to teach people to avoid sin and to work toward pleasing God. But because so many people rejected Jesus, Mary’s immaculate heart grew weary and sad that people were rejecting God.
